Are you pursuing a graduate degree to impact your career? If so, we're here to help! The Graduate Career Center in the D'Amore-McKim School of Business provides you with an array of services starting in your first semester. We've designed a timeline of your program that incorporates our services to help you define your career goals, to learn how to leverage your network, and to design and implement a job search strategy to guide you to full-time employment.

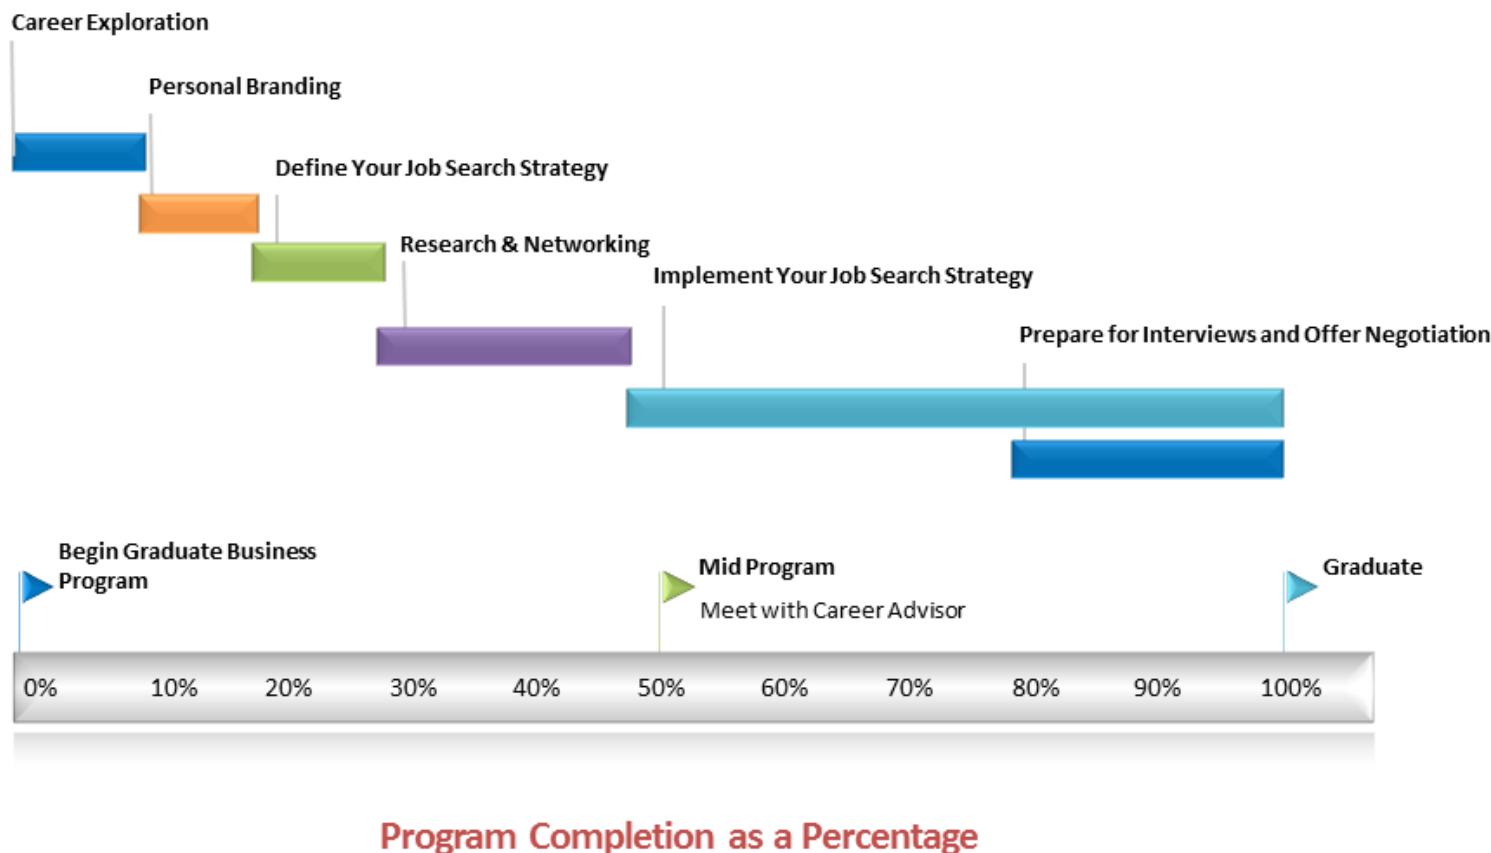

Whether you are looking to change your career or to obtain a promotion from within your current company, these resources will give you a competitive advantage over other job seekers. Each resource provides you with quantitative and qualitative data that is not available to the public. You can use this information when networking, interviewing, or writing cover letters, to differentiate yourself from other job seekers.

The recommended Career Management timeline and resources are the tools you'll need to succeed in your job search, but they are just that: Tools. We'll explain when and how to use them effectively, but it requires dedication and discipline. This approach does not allow for shortcuts. For example, you will not be handed a list of career center contacts because that does not align with best practices in career management. Instead, we aim to help you learn methodologies that will support not only your next career move, but your career.

Our resources are purposefully aligned with your progress in your Master's program, as academic learning typically influences your career decisions. Using these resources as outlined will allow you to differentiate yourself from the competition.

If you're ready to get started, read on!

Career Management Plan

Career Management Timeline

The following sections will walk you through the Career Management Plan to describe the different phases and to identify the various resources you can use throughout the process. For step-by-step instructions on how to access and use specific resources, please refer to the Appendix on page 8.

Career Exploration (0% - 10% program completion)

Whether you are fully aware of your career goals, or still unsure of what you want to be when you “grow up,” this first section in the career management process is meant to be self-reflective. Consider the following questions when examining your career goals:

- What are your strengths/development areas? (Review prior performance appraisals and feedback from those who have observed your work)
- What professions excite you? Marketing? Supply Chain? Finance?
- Which industry/industries do you want to work in (Financial Services, Consumer Goods, Logistics, etc.)?
- What elements of company culture are most important to you (collaboration, extraversion/introversion, decisiveness, innovation, etc.)?
- What motivates you (affiliation, recognition, influence, autonomy, intellectual challenge, work/life balance, opportunities for advancement, etc.)?
- What skills do you enjoy using (analyzing, researching, writing, managing, organizing, communicating, consulting, etc.)?

Experts suggest listing out your skills and interests to identify your areas of strength. As you begin to identify your strengths, along with your weaknesses, start exploring different industries and professions. Vault's Career Insider is a reference that will help you understand the pros and cons of working in specific industries, professions and/or companies along with detailed information about future outlooks and tips for entry. For example, you may find that jobs in a particular industry are short in duration and mostly contract based. This information enables you to tailor your job search based on your career goals.

Vault's Career Insider also has full-length industry guides you can download for free! Interested in breaking into Social Media or Investment Banking? What about Product Marketing or Consulting? There are high quality industry guides for these industries. For more information on Vault's Career Insider, click here to view the Harnessing the Power of Technology webinar. You can access Vault through the Global Talent System (GTS). Contact the Graduate Career Center for access!

Personal Branding (10% - 20% program completion)

Think of your LinkedIn profile and resume as your marketing collateral. These two items are meant to communicate your areas of expertise and accomplishments throughout your career. Does your resume reflect your accomplishments? Are those accomplishments quantified wherever possible? To help you create a powerful resumes, we recommend you watch the following webinar: Writing a Compelling Resume.

After watching the webinar, carefully read the resume guidelines and samples. These documents will help you properly format your resume so it visually appeals to employers and reflects your qualifications. This format is based on feedback from our employer partners. To apply to any jobs posted on GTS, your resume must be in the approved format.

Along with resumes, companies are relying heavily on LinkedIn to recruit. Does your LinkedIn profile give the reader an understanding of your professional brand – telling the story of where you've been, what you've accomplished, your career goals and the competencies you offer to prospective employers? To help you create a strong LinkedIn profile, check out our LinkedIn: Creating a Vibrant Profile that Gets you Noticed webinar.

Define Your Job Search Strategy (20%-30% program completion)

Now that you've defined your career goals and determined your skill set, it's time to begin outlining your job search strategy. We have two webinars to guide you. The aptly named: The Targeted Job Search Part 1 and The Targeted Job Search Part 2. These webinars are designed to provide a systematic approach to your job search. We strongly recommend students read "The New Rules of Work" by Alexandra Cavoulacos and Kathryn Minshew. Click here for a link to the book on Amazon. This current and realistic approach to the job search helps increase your success in your search!

Job Search Strategies for International Students

International students may face additional challenges when seeking a job in the United States, specifically, securing a position at a company that is willing and able to be an H-1B sponsor. For questions regarding the Visa process, we recommend students speak with a representative from the Office of Global Services \(OGS\) at Northeastern University. They can answer a majority of questions you may have about OPT and work Visas in the US. You may also contact Praggya Rustagi Barretto at p.rustagibarretto@northeastern.edu to receive a copy of the Graduate Career Center's Guide to Competitive Recruiting. This guide is designed for employers who have questions about employing students studying on visa.

We strongly recommend that you read "3 Steps to Your Job in the USA" by Steven Steinfeld and Yinping Huang, the 3rd edition. Click here for the link to the book on Amazon! The GoinGlobal H-1B Plus feature is a great tool for international students. It is a database of companies that have submitted visa applications over the past three months. It is updated regularly. For more information on how to use these resources, watch the Harnessing the Power of Technology webinar.

Research & Networking (30% - 50% program completion)

Once you've created and prioritized your target list, you'll enter the research and networking phase. Networking is a critical piece of any job search. Although networking can seem awkward, it really works! Here are some statistics:

"While applying to jobs may make you feel productive, a recent CareerXroads survey shows that only 15 percent of positions were filled through job boards....remember: More than 70 percent of people land jobs through networking." – US News, Hannah Morgan, "Don't Believe These 8 Job Search Myths"

For more information on Networking, click here to view the Graduate Career Center webinar.

Vault's Career Insider also offers a guide to networking you can download to your kindle or tablet.

Now that you've familiarized yourself with what networking is and how to do it, it's time to start researching so you can ask interesting questions and engage in meaningful discussions. Hoover's is a database with more than 80,000,000 company profiles and more than 5,000 industries. You'll find details about a company's products, news alerts and industry trends. This information can't be found for free anywhere else online. Use Hoover's to increase your competitive advantage in the job market and show the people you network with, that you are serious about the next steps of your career.

GoinGlobal can help you research companies and industries geographically, whether it is a city in the United States, or a country across the globe. You'll find networking groups, industry associations and employment trends for numerous cities and states around the world. Click here for the webinar! Hoovers and Vault's Career Insider can also be accessed through GTS.

Implement Your Job Search Strategy (50% - 100% program completion)

You've worked long and hard and now you've made it to the half-way point, academically and in your career management progress! Academically, you will have likely finished most of your core courses. Now, you're ready to tackle your electives and to dive further into your specialization. In your career planning, you've completed the first four phases: you've determined your goals, identified industries and professions, developed a powerful resume, created a LinkedIn profile to reflect your professional brand, defined a job search strategy to guide you through the process, and started expanding your network. Now it's time to implement your job search strategy and start applying for jobs!

At this phase, the Graduate Career Center recommends that you schedule a meeting with a Career Advisor to discuss your strategy and progress. An Advisor can help you refine your resume and provide advice on your networking and job search strategies. To schedule a meeting with a Career Advisor, complete the Advisor Application on page 11. Once this application is approved, the Graduate Career Center will assign you to an advisor who will then send you an e-mail. You'll need to provide your advisor with a resume formatted according to the Graduate Career Center guidelines. Once your advisor approves your resume, you'll be able to apply to jobs through GTS. It's important to be 50% or more through your program before you start applying to these jobs because the employers typically look for candidates who have completed, or are very close to completing their master's degree.

In addition to LinkedIn, you will also be able to access job postings through several sites on Global Talent System (GTS, page 8). Glassdoor, Vault's Career Insider, and GoinGlobal also list jobs that you can apply to. Bear in mind, only 15% of jobs are found through online applications, so it's important to keep networking!

Where there are job applications, there are cover letters! The Graduate Career Center Writing a Customized Cover Letter webinar is a great starting point to help you connect the employer's needs to your qualifications. Click here to view the webinar. We also have sample cover letters posted on the website to provide inspiration.

Interviews and Compensation Negotiation (80% - 100% program completion)

You've networked and applied to jobs and now you've landed an interview. Click here to view the Interviewing for Success Part 1 and 2 Webinars to guide you through the process. Vault's Career Insider offers numerous interviewing guides, including some specialty resources such as guides on case interviews and finance interview. You may also book a mock interview with your Advisor to receive valuable feedback.

After you successfully complete the interview process, you may receive an offer, or you may even be juggling multiple offers! For salary information, you may want to use Glassdoor and/or salary.com. When it comes to compensation negotiation, it's about more than just salary. To learn more about negotiating an offer, view this webinar on Offer Negotiation.

Graduate Career Center Events

As graduate business students, all are welcome to attend these Graduate Career Center events! Please see below for event descriptions and watch your Husky email for registration information.

Networking Events (Spring, Summer and Winter)

These structured events are held at the Boston, MA campus in the evening, typically from 5:30 – 7:30 PM. We start the event with “speed networking” – very similar to speed dating. You’ll start at a table with a group of students and employers where you’ll have the opportunity to introduce yourselves and discuss your professional interests. After 8 – 10 minutes, you are signaled to move to the next table. This process will continue for about an hour. After speed networking, the event becomes more informal and you can socialize and speak with whomever you wish while enjoying some light hors d’oeuvres. Business professional attire is required.

Career Expos (Spring and Fall)

The Career Expos are less structured events. They run from 1:30 PM – 4:00 PM at the Boston, MA campus. Individual companies have their own table set-up so you may approach whichever companies interest you. You may stay for the whole event, or you can stop by for an hour. This is a great opportunity to build your network and learn more about different industries! Business professional attire is required.

Webinars (Throughout the year)

The Graduate Career Center hosts webinars each month covering a variety of job search topics. You can find all of the webinars here: <http://www.damore-mckim.northeastern.edu/graduate-career-center/webinars> We send emails to students so they can register.
