

Resilience and Autonomy - Pedagogical Multiliteracies in a Globalizing World

Friday June 25th • 10AM - 3 PM ET • Virtual

This interdisciplinary virtual conference on learning resilience and autonomy brings together three unique panels and two keynotes to explore the application of innovative, research-based teaching principles affecting students, instructors, and the educational institution. Speakers and panelists explore ways to address student accessibility and social justice needs as they face adversity and the challenges of becoming global digital citizens.

Register on Eventbrite

ASL interpreting services have been requested.

Marla Perez Lugo
Environmental Sociologist, Professor

Flower Darby
Educator, Author, & Speaker

This free, virtual conference is organized by the Humanities Center's Collaborative Research Cluster themed “Resilience and Autonomy - Pedagogical Multi-literacies in a Globalizing World.” Registration is required.

 Northeastern University
College of Social Sciences and Humanities
Humanities Center